1. The control of the coastal defense installations is in the hands of the Russians, directed by a Soviet general, Barikado.
2. Redlowo is located about three kilometers south of Gdynia. The coast there is rocky and is about 100 meters above sea level. Coastal defense work was begun in 1950. The fortifications consist of a platform on which three guns, 18 centimeters in diameter, are emplaced, a fire-control pillbox, and range finders; the latter are located behind the emplacement. The site is camouflaged by trees.
3. At Kolobrzeg (Kolberg) construction work was begun in 1950 on three large concrete pillboxes. The pillbox walls are about two meters thick. The dimensions of each pillbox are about 15 x 15 meters. Each pillbox has two stories. The distance between pillboxes is about 50 meters. They are located about 500 meters west of the Prosnica (Persante) River.
